President | Jesus Generation

Visionary Leader • Entrepreneur • Ministry Executive • Business Strategist • Humanitarian

Efrain Duran is a visionary executive, entrepreneur, and Christian leader with more than 25 years of experience in business development, organizational leadership, strategic partnerships, and faith-based community transformation. As President of Jesus Generation, he brings a powerful combination of executive leadership, entrepreneurial experience, and an unwavering commitment to advancing the Gospel of Jesus Christ while empowering the next generation of leaders.

Throughout his career, Duran has demonstrated an exceptional ability to build organizations, unite people around a common vision, and transform strategic ideas into sustainable initiatives. His professional background includes founding and leading successful enterprises in commercial printing, marketing, communications, and business development. Through STX Printing, Cross Marketing, and Dream Marketing RGV, he has developed extensive experience in organizational growth, brand development, corporate partnerships, financial planning, and executive management.

As President of Jesus Generation, Duran's vision is to expand the organization's influence nationally and internationally by equipping children, youth, families, educators, and communities with biblical principles, moral values, leadership skills, and opportunities for lasting transformation. His leadership emphasizes building meaningful relationships with churches, corporations, donors, missionaries, chaplains, educational institutions, and humanitarian organizations.

A central focus of his mission is developing sustainable partnerships, strengthening fundraising initiatives, expanding missionary outreach, and equipping future generations to become individuals of integrity, courage, compassion, and purpose. He is particularly passionate about protecting vulnerable children, advancing educational opportunities, preventing human trafficking, and strengthening communities through faith-centered humanitarian initiatives.

In addition to his corporate accomplishments, Duran is the Founder and Executive Director of Men of Steel Ministries, Inc., established in 2015. Through this ministry and its Ministry of Reconciliation prison outreach, he has dedicated himself to restoring lives, strengthening families, mentoring men, and helping incarcerated individuals discover a renewed identity and purpose through Jesus Christ.

His leadership experience also includes involvement with Convoy of Hope, Adopt-A-Block, BetterMan, The Cross Experience, and other community development initiatives. His educational and professional training includes the University of Texas–Pan American, Texas State Technical College, Oral Roberts University, and chaplaincy development through the National School Chaplain Association and North Texas Collegiate Institute.

Duran believes that the greatest measure of leadership is not the position a person holds, but the lives they transform, the leaders they develop, and the legacy they leave behind. His approach combines business excellence with servant leadership, recognizing that effective ministry requires spiritual conviction, organizational accountability, strategic relationships, and sustainable financial stewardship.

As President of Jesus Generation, Efrain Duran is committed to building a global movement that reaches beyond geographical, cultural, and economic boundaries—connecting faith with action, compassion with purpose, and today's leadership with tomorrow's possibilities.

His vision is greater than organizational expansion. It is to raise a generation that knows its identity in Christ, understands its God-given purpose, stands firm in biblical truth, and becomes a powerful influence for positive change throughout the world.

“Transforming Lives. Developing Leaders. Empowering Generations. Advancing the Kingdom of God.”
